

CHRIS

Okay I have to get to a meeting soon, so we should make this quick. You need to figure out how you feel about Paul.

Jenny. You seriously can't tell how he looks at you? I'm pretty sure he's given up on trying to hide it at this point.

Every time I see you guys together at the Squiche he's giving you shoulder rubs...

You're always flirting with each other. And don't try to tell me you're not. I've known you since before puberty. I know the full evolutionary history of your flirting style.

You might not realize it, but it seems like you and Paul really like each other. And as your friends we just want you to be happy.

Look, do whatever feels right. I just think that's what you want.