

MEG:
Yeah, sure. Thanks.

Meg moves into her bedroom to pick out clothes for the concert. Kat begins to practice Carmina Burana on her violin in the other room. Hearing it draws Meg to an array of photos on the wall above her desk. Kat's one-violin Carmina Burana blends into an orchestral version lodged somewhere in Meg's memory as she looks through the photographs. They're images of her family when she was younger. She's especially drawn to a photo of her, her mom and grandmother when Meg was about 10. The camera zooms into this, then back to Meg's face.

SCENE 2

INT. CONCERT HALL

Meg is dressed up in elegant black. The concert hall is bursting. She wanders down the row looking for her seat. She finally finds it and scoots over people to get to the middle of the row.

MEG:
Excuse me.

She sits in her seat, next to Matt.

MATT:
No problem.

Moment of awkward silence between them.

MATT:
Do you know someone? In the show?

MEG:
Yeah, my roommate is in the violins.
You?

MATT:
My friend sings. He's in glee club.

MEG:
Cool.

MATT:
I've never seen the orchestra perform before though. I'm excited.

MEG:
Yeah, they're great.

MATT:
I wish I could do that. You know, play an instrument, sing, have some musical talent. How about you? Do you play anything?

MEG:
Piano, actually. Not a ton anymore though. It's hard to keep up with that stuff at school.

MATT:
Oh, yeah. Are you a...junior?

MEG:
Sophomore.

MATT:
Oh cool. Me too. What are you majoring in?

MEG:
Neuroscience.

MATT:
No wonder you don't have free time.

MEG:
Yeah, I'm premed too so.

MATT:
Geez. Well, I'm in history. I just read a ton really.

MEG:
Sounds fun.

MATT:
Oh, it is. I'm right now reading the history of ancient Rome by Livy, translated about a hundred times. I'm really more into the modern stuff.

MEG:
Yeah, me too. I took APUSH in high school.

MATT:

A regular scholar!

MEG:

Yeah, yeah, it was no ancient Rome.

The glee club and orchestra pour onto the stage consecutively.

MATT:

Oh, there's the glee club! JEREMY WHOO! Where's your roommate?

MEG:

There she is. In the front on the right.

MATT:

What's her name?

MEG:

Kat.

MATT:

Yeah, KAT WHOO!

MEG:

Shhh you'll freak her out!

Kat looks around a bit confused, then sees Meg, who has begun waving, and smiles at her.

SCENE 3

Snippets of the concert. Carmina Burana plays, the camera pans between the stage and Meg and Matt, who seem to continue chatting and having a good time during the piece. No dialogue-- despite seeing them talking, only the music is heard. The montage ends with the end of the piece, and a standing ovation.

SCENE 4

Matt and Meg both rush toward the stage, Matt keeping Meg near him and helping her to push through the crowd. Matt meets Jeremy and Meg goes toward Kat, who is near him.

MEG:

It was amazing. I loved it. Absolutely a fan favorite. Everyone was totally enraptured.
